

THE POLICY CONFERENCE FOR YOUTH 2026

 Confirmed Delegate

The Convener's Mandate

To the mind reading this:

Let me be clear about why you are holding this Delegate Pass today.

Make no mistake: you are not here merely to make up the numbers. You didn't just click a registration link and stumble into this room by chance. When we opened the portal for The Policy Conference for Youth 2026, we weren't looking for a passive audience to quietly fill a hall in Ibadan. We were looking for builders.

It is always easier to be cynical, to accept the narrative that our systems are too broken, that our institutions are too entrenched, and that our voices do not matter. But I wanted to find those young, restless minds who are tired of just complaining about the Nigerian system. I wanted to find the men and women who are finally ready to roll up their sleeves and do the heavy, necessary lifting required to fix it.

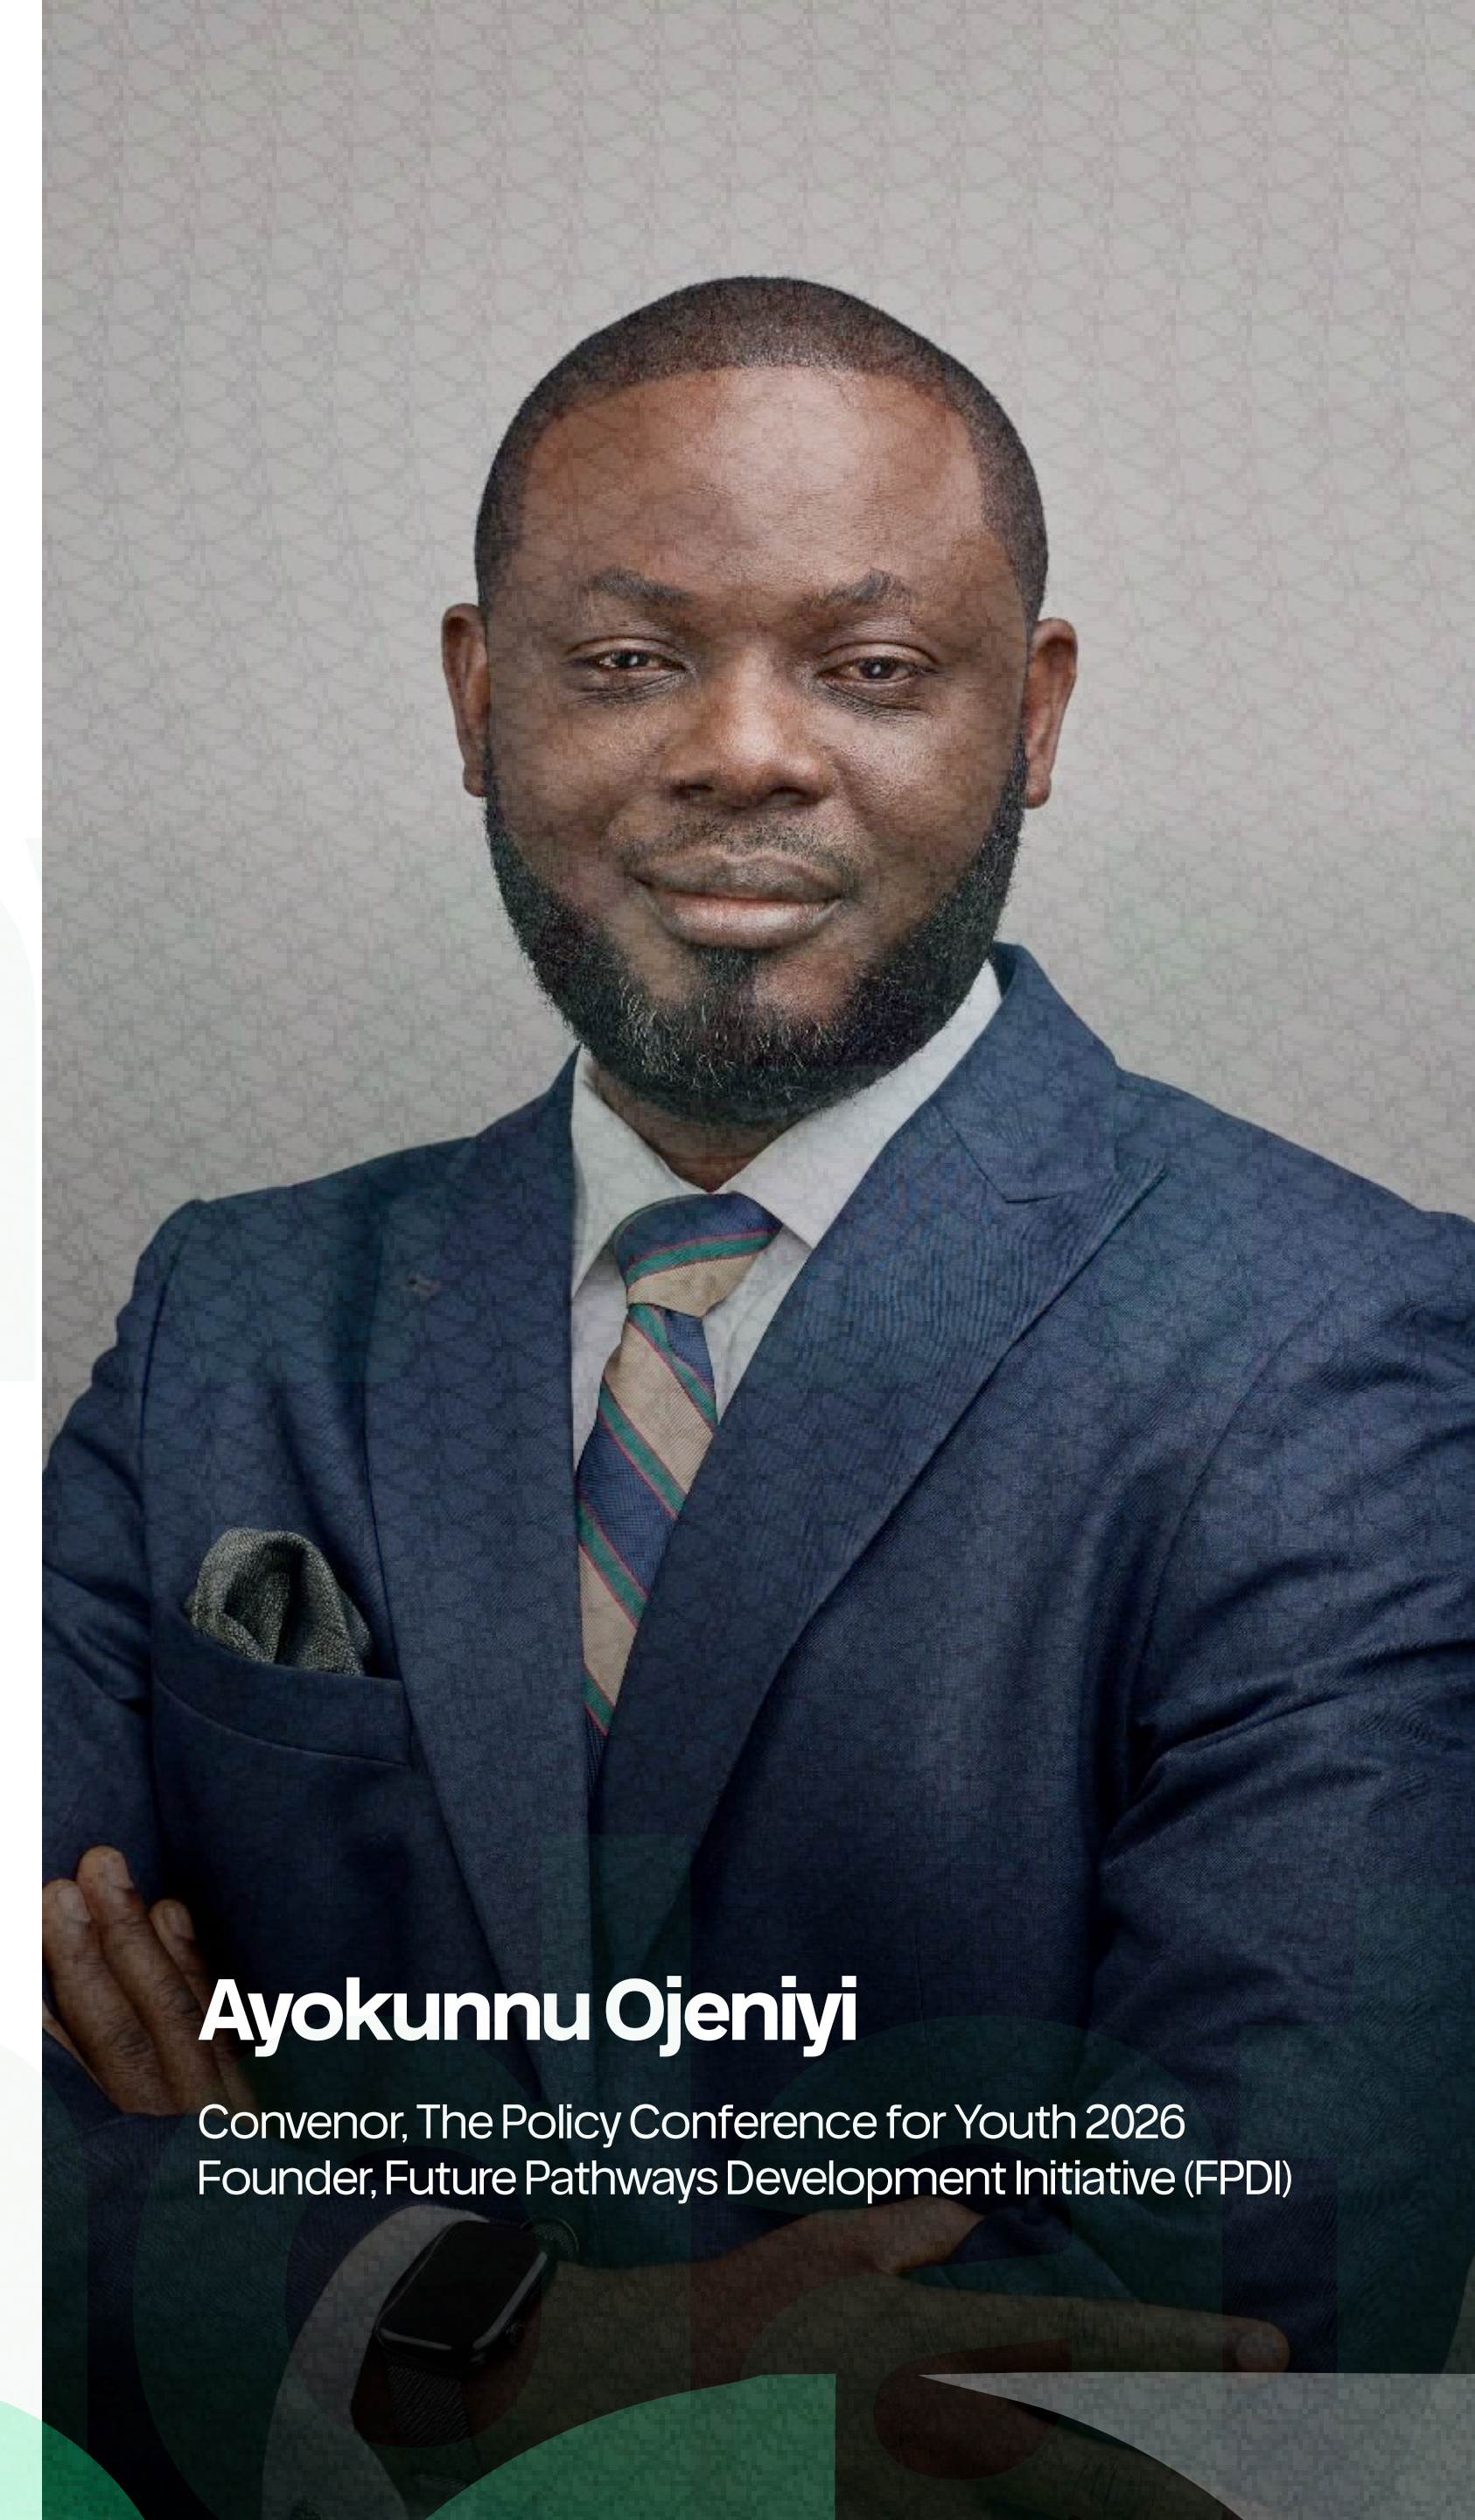

Your application proved to us that you are one of those minds.

So, when you walk onto the grounds of the University of Ibadan on August 12, I am asking you to leave the typical "seminar" mindset at the door. We cannot afford for you to sit quietly at the back and take notes. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. once reminded us of "the fierce urgency of now"—warning that there is no time for the luxury of cooling off or accepting the status quo.

Come ready to receive the fresh perspectives that will be critical in our shared journey of rebuilding trust in the Nigerian State. You will be sitting shoulder-to-shoulder with the sharpest civic thinkers in this country, alongside the very stakeholders who hold the power to turn our blueprints into reality.

The stage is set. The moment is ours. Bring your absolute best.

Let's get to work, and I will see you on the frontlines.

The Initiative & The Mission

The Policy Challenge: The Crucible

To find those minds, we launched The Policy Challenge. Operating under the theme, "Rebuilding Trust in the Nigerian State: Institutional Reforms for Legitimacy, Effectiveness, and Inclusive Governance," we demanded more than just rhetoric.

We challenged participants to tackle our fractured social contract by addressing three core pillars: restoring Legitimacy and accountability, optimizing the Effectiveness of public delivery, and ensuring Inclusive Governance that leaves no one behind. To survive this crucible, teams had to deliver strategic blueprints that were intensely data-driven, highly localized to the Nigerian reality, and immediately actionable by actual lawmakers.

The response proved the urgency of our mission. From a massive pool of over 300 team submissions, representing over 1000 individual participants across 33 states, we narrowed it down to just 3 elite finalists.

The Future Pathways Development Initiative (FPDI)

At the core of everything happening on August 12 is FPD. We are an action-tank built on a singular, unapologetic belief: the future of Nigerian governance cannot be left to chance or passive observation. Our mission is to identify the sharpest civic minds, equip them with the tactical tools of statecraft, and position them in the rooms where structural change actually happens.

The Initiative & The Mission

The Policy Conference for Youth 2026: The Convergence

Now, everything culminates here. On August 12, at the University of Ibadan, the minds that survived the Challenge will converge with 300 delegates, national leaders, and key stakeholders for a full-scale intellectual gathering.

Anchored by our 2026 theme “Rebuilding Trust in the Nigerian State” the conference is the ultimate arena for rigorous discourse. This is where we start evaluating real frameworks. It is here that we will witness the highly anticipated finale of the Policy Challenge live on stage, unlearn broken systems, and forge the strategic alliances necessary to move our blueprints from the drafting table to reality.

A Crash Course on Ibadan

Ibadan is the capital of Oyo State and the third most populous city in Nigeria. Historically, it served as the administrative and political headquarters of the old Western Region. It is widely known in Nigerian history as a city of firsts: it is home to Cocoa House (Nigeria's first skyscraper), Liberty Stadium (the first standard stadium in Africa), and WNTV (Africa's first television station). It is a city with deep political roots and a long history of driving regional policy and governance.

Our Host

The University of Ibadan

Located right at the center of this history is the University of Ibadan (UI). Founded in 1948, it is Nigeria's first and oldest degree-awarding institution. It originally started as a college of the University of London before becoming a fully independent university. For over seven decades, UI has operated as the primary intellectual base of the country.

Prominent Alumni The university has produced some of the most influential figures in Nigerian history. The people who walked these exact halls include:

- Wole Soyinka (Nobel Laureate and activist)
- Chinua Achebe (Novelist and literary pioneer)
- Chief Emeka Anyaoku (Former Commonwealth Secretary-General)
- Ken Saro-Wiwa (Author and environmental activist)

Logistics & Venue Access

The Venue

The conference will be held at KAAF Auditorium, University Of Ibadan

Timing & Accreditation

- Accreditation Opens: 9:00 AM Prompt.
- There will be no access to the hall without your digital or printed Delegate Pass. Please arrive early to complete your check-in and secure your seating before the opening remarks.

Delegate Categories & Accommodation

To ensure smooth operations for the hundreds of attendees traveling in, delegates are categorized into three distinct groups:

- 1. In-State Delegates: Attendees based within Ibadan. You are expected to arrive directly at KAAF Auditorium for accreditation on the morning of August 12. Accommodation is not provided for this category.
- 2. Out-of-State Delegates: Verified Delegates from the policy hubs traveling from outside Oyo State, will be provided transportation to and fro to the conference.

Dress Code & Presentation

Corporate Professional

Sharp, well-fitted corporate suiting that projects authority and competence.

Premium Traditional

High-quality, well-tailored native attire—such as crisp Agbadas or sharp Kaftans—that represents our cultural identity with executive polish.

Code of Conduct & Rules of Engagement

What You Must Bring:

- Your Credentials: Your printed or digital Delegate Pass and a valid ID. You will not gain entry to Trenchard Hall without them.
- Your Tools: Laptops, tablets, or physical notepads. You are here to evaluate blueprints and take notes on actionable frameworks.
- An Architect's Mindset: Come ready to debate, listen, and construct. We are here to dismantle bad policies and design better ones.

What You Must Leave Behind:

- Lateness: Accreditation closes strictly on schedule. Once the doors to Trenchard Hall are shut for the opening keynote, access will be restricted.
- Passive Spectatorship: There are no back-benchers at this conference. Whether you are a finalist pitching on stage or a delegate evaluating from the floor, you are expected to engage actively.
- Unsubstantiated Complaints: This is the arena for solutions. If you are pointing out a flaw in the Nigerian State, you must be prepared to discuss the structural fix.

Next Steps & Call to Action

Your Immediate Action Required

You have the blueprint, the logistics, and the rules of engagement.

Here is exactly what you need to do right now to lock in your place for August 12:

1. Secure Your Delegate Pass: Save it directly to your phone or print a physical copy. Remember, no pass, no entry into Trenchard Hall.
2. Join the Official Comms Channel: Click here [\[Channel Link\]](#) to join the dedicated closed group (Telegram/WhatsApp) for all confirmed delegates. Live updates, emergency broadcasts, and direct communication with the FPDl logistics team will happen exclusively here.
